

San Francisco – Old and New

The Cliff House and Seal Rocks—“We took a motorcar out to where San Francisco ended, and ate dinner at the Cliff House restaurant with the Pacific Ocean pounding at our feet, watching the sun go down.” (from Locked Rooms, Laurie R. King, page 67.)

The Ferry Building—“The streetcar reached the wide boulevard of the Embarcadero, onto which all the piers opened, and entered the turn-around in front of the Ferry Building.” (Locked Rooms, page 387.)

Lafayette Square (1906)—“In the next picture in the sequence, a tent city had sprung up in front of the elaborate Victorian houses that faced the park.” (Locked Rooms, page 190.)
